The Flames Are Again Devastating the Towns of Minresota.

THE PEOPLE LEAVING THEIR HOMES And Flying to the Rivers and Lakes

TOWN OF MORA REPORTED DESTROYED.

for Safety.

Reports from Northeast Minnesota Bay That the Fires Are Sweeping Over the Country with Terrible Fierceness.

Duluth, Minn., September 9 .- Forest fires are again raging in the vicinity of the was a general scare at half a dozen towns on the line of the St. Paul and Duluth and Eastern Minnesota roads this afternoon. Early in the afternoon a strong wind from the southwest sprang up, reaching the velocity of twenty-five miles an hour, and the fires, which had been smoldering in the brush, were fanned to flerceness. The north-bound St. Paul and Duluth limited train, which arrived at 10:20 o'clock tonight, nearly four hours late, was stopped at Rush City, because of fire near the tracks in many pieces of woods. At Pine City there was the pall of smoke and red glow of sky that told Duluth of Hinckley's tion a week ago. The people at Pine City in a body fied to the river and lake in the neighborhood and dragged whatever belongings they coud to those places of safety. The fires have not, however, reached the town.

At Kenrick, Barnum and Carlton, the last two places of considerable importance, firefighting has been in progress all day and the southwest gale made the situation exceedingly dangerous. A change of wind to the northeast this afternoon has probably eared the towns.

No Chance of Escape. St. Paul, Minn., September 9.—Alarming fo'clock p. m. to the effect that forest tres are tonight sweeping several counties of northeastern Minnesota. The wires are already in a state of demoralization and south-bound trains due early in the evening tere hung up somewhere between Hinckley and Duluth for three hours. Messages from st. Cloud and Brainerd say that Round se, a village of 200 people in Mille Lac ounty, is in great danger and that Barnum, Carkon county, is surrounded by fire, which stanned by such a terriffic wind that the e has no chance of escape.

Mora Destroyed by Fires. 8: Pau', Minn., September 9.-Mora, Man., is reported destroyed by forest fires, and the little station of Round House, near Mora, is in great danger. The wind is blowing a gale at these points at sundown nd the worst is feared. The Duluth fire lepartment is fighting fires in the outskirts that city. Carlton and Hinckley also seem to be again in trouble.

Another Report Regarding Mora. St. Cloud. Minn., September 9.-This even a report was received at the Great thern dispatcher's office that the towns Mora and Round House, nineteen miles of Hinckley, were both on fire and med to destruction. The operator at rainformed the office here that he would his post and lock the office. out 8 o'clock this evening another dispatch stated that by the change of the leavy wind, which had been fanning the flames all day, Mora might possibly escape. At Soule station, a large sawmill and lumer yard were wiped out. The people at ng fire and if the fire did enter the town y have found safety in Snake river.

Fire Raging Aided by High Wind. Mora, Minn., September 9.-Mora has been no immediate danger from fire. High winds prevail and there is a very heavy ire at Round House, seven ast of here, but at present no buildings have been burned. The women and children

Ashland, Wis., September 9 .- Michael oepler has been arrested and brought to and from Marengo on a charge of seting fire to the forests, causing the loss of eight lives at High Bridge. He was bound ver for trial and lodged in jail. The feeling is intensely bitter against him.

BAD FIRE IN ROANOKE.

The Bridgewater Building and Contents Totally Destroyed. Roanoke, Va., September 3.-One of the most disastrous fires that ever occurred in his city, broke out at 11 o'clck this mornin the Bridgewater building, a large three-story, cased-brick structure, which, with its contents, was entirely destroyed within an hour and a half.

By the extraordinary efforts of the fire epartment, the adjoining buildings were aved. The origin of the fire, which started the armory of the Roanoke Light Infant-I, is ur known.

The losses are as follows: The Southern feekly News office, furniture and books, 20, no insurance; Overstreet & Thurmar furniture, $3,000, insurance, $400; W. D. Stew-art, feed and grain, $1,000, insurance, $500; Reynolds Bros., tobacco, $5,000, insurance, Beynolds Bros., tobacco, $5,000, and Inguesta. M. school, $600, insurance, $400.

The building belonged to the Home Building and Conveyance Company, and cost $32,000; insurance $10,000. The dwelling of A. M. Robertson, Jr., was damaged $200; covered by insurance. Several of the firemen were overcome by heat and were carried away by their comrades Mr. Tinsley is rendered penniless by the fire and was carried away in hysterics when he saw his property being destroyed.

DROUGHT AND DESPAIR.

Nebraska Farmers in a Bad Way. Chattle Mortgages on Their Goods. Omaha, Neb., September 9.—As a result of the many exaggerated reports in circulation as to drought and destitution in Nebraska. The Bee has secured and published an acurate statement from each county from the county commissioners. These reports indicate the actual condition of the people in the drought-stricken counties, which is, and does, not promise to become as serious as heretofore predicted.

Only in the western portion of the state are there likely to be urgent demands for

In Lincoln county the situation is worse than in other places. The report from there than in other places. The report from there says:

On every hand abandoned homesteads and whitened and withered fields of corn tell the story of discouragement and despair. Along the streams where irrigation has furnished moisture, farmers have succeeded in raising crops. Elsewhere everything has burned. Many farmers are too poor to move away. With chattel mortgages on all their possessions they must leave bare-handed or stay and starve unless outside help is furnished. Every day new applications for county charity evidence the growing distress. State aid is absolutely necessary. To indicate the urgent need of assistance, it may be said correspondence looking to the calling of a convention to consider the best methods convention to consider the best methods for securing and rendering aid has been carried on recently between many county officials in these western counties.

The Chamber of Commerce will shortly take action relative to making a display of the mineral and agricultural resources of what is known as the Chattanooga mineral district, which lies in a radius of fifty miles of this city. The matter is now in the hands of the committee on immigration and industrial exhibits, and a report will be made to the chamber at the next meeting. Pence Accepts the Renomination. Denver, Col., September 9.—Representa-tive Lafe Pence has finally accepted the renomination of the populist convention though under protest. He says: "I may have been misunderstood. Some kind-hearted but misinformed friend has said that my nomination to congress need not be a bar to my aspirations to the senate. But it will be. No man who is a nominee for congress has the right to aspire to the senate. I should have liked to have gone after Wolcott, and I might have been the beneficiary. I accept the determination of my constituents, however."

Labor Party Meeting at Cincinnafi. Cincinnati, O., September 9.—Eighty-three delegates to the independent political labor votes in this city, met here last night an passed resolutions endorsing the principle of the old labor party before its incorpora tion into the populist organization. It was decided to submit these resolutions to the populist state central committee and if the committee should agree to adopt them the conference pledged itsif to act with the populists at the next election. President John McBryde, of the United Mine Workers' Association, was the principal steel speaker.

South McAlester, I. T., September 9.— Yancey Lewis, master in chancery, yester day sold the Choctaw Coal and Railway Company to the highest bidder for $3,500,000 Company to the highest bidder for $5,500,000.
George H. Earle, of Philadelphia, was the purchaser. The name of the road will be changed to Choctaw. Oklahoma and Guif Railroad Company, and it will be extended from South McAlester to Oklahoma at an early day.

Chicago, September 9.—During the heav night lightning struck a steam dredge st tioned near the Fifty-sixth street pier killing Charles Ritter and probably fatall; injuring Fred Simmons, who were walking on the dredge. A couple of residence were also struck by lightning, but no other fatalities are reported.

The Reason Given for Sinking the Chinese Transport Kow-Shung

BY THE JAPANESE WARSHIP.

Chinese Soldiers in Sack Gowns and Silk Hats.

THEY ARE COMMANDED BY ENGLISHMEN

An Army of Hundreds of Thousands Being Sent to Cores-Outrages Committed on the Japanese.

Victoria, B. C., September 9.-The Northern Pacific liner Sikh from Yokohama brings interesting advices of the war in the orient. The reason given by the commander of the Japanese warship Naniwa Kwan, when asked why he fired upon Kow-Shung, seeing she was flying the British flag, is now given for the first time and is certainly pertinent.

"Because she was sailing under false colors; was carrying Chinese troops and had been sold to the Chinese government and fully paid for."

Notwithstanding this explanation the same paper which gives it publicity announces the sum of $750,000 has been agreed to by the Japanese government, as reparation for the sinking of the vessel and compensation to those dependent upon the Europeans lost with ber.

Both China and Japan are at present keenly alert for articles contraband of war. and to this the delay in the arrival of the Sikh is attributable. The government has declined to consider rice as contraband of war, but both belligerents claim it to be such and use every endeavor to intercept rice carrying vessels. The Sihk was delayed at Shanghai by a Chinese gunboat which made an effort to gain possession of the rice portion of her cargo. The British consul objected and the merchantman was allowed to proceed.

It is almost impossible to get relable war news anywhere in the east, even at Shanghal. This trip the steamer passed very close to Foo Chow forts and saw the Chinese garrison drawn up in line. They were all attired in flowing sack gowns of gaudy colors and had high three-cornered silk Every line of goods made in this city will hats and made a curious spectacle. China is now hurrying an army of hundreds of thousands of men through northern China to Corea, but as they are subsisting on the products of the country through which they are passing and most of it is mountainous, it is hard to say with what success they will meet. Most of the men enlisted and drafted into the Chinase arraice and could are the be asked to make appropriations so as to into the Chinese armies are coolies of the owest order. The Chinese have been offering great inducements to Europeans and Americans to enter their service and have secured many. On the other hand, the Japanese have no outsiders in any branch of their service. On the way over on the last trip to the orient, the Sikh passed through a fleet of twenty Chinese ships. They were divided into four divisions, with five ships in each division. They were well handled. At the smaller Chinese ports all manner of outrages have been con dent Japanese, and in some places people have been robbed.

DEPRIVED OF THE FEATHER. Admiral Ting Degraded for Cowardice and Incapacity. London, September 9 .- The Morning Post vill print tomorrow this dispatch from Shanghai:

"Admiral Ting, commanding the Chines fleet in the gulf of Pechli, has been degraded for cowardice and incapacity, de prived of the peacock feather and ordered to leave the fleet and take a minor command ashore. The reasons for the sum-mariness of this action are not given. Hitherto Ting has been regarded as an able . His disgrace is believed to be due to his failure to prevent the entrance of the Japanese fleet into the gulf of Pechli and consequent capture of an island in Society bay. The native newspapers state that Li Hung Chang is trying to procure the mediation of the United Kingdom or Russia. The emperor and dowager empress are furious on this account and will not listen to the suggestions of Li Hung Chang.
"The country in the neighborhood of Pekin

SICKNESS IN CHINESE CAMPS.

Owing to the Rains and Bad Provis ionr-Repairing the Roads. London, September 9.—The Central News correspondent in Shanghai says that the Chinese have ceased sending reinforce ments to Corea via Manchuria. Troops are now drafting from the interior for the coast garrisons, presumably in anticipation of a

The Japanese are repairing the roads around Seoul to facilitate the movemen of troops. Sickness is prevalent in the Chinese camp near Ping Yang, owing to the continued rains and the bad condition of the provisions.

Trying to Interfere.

Paris, September 9.—The Republique Francaise says in regard to the report that it is the intention of the Japanese to attack Shanghal, is proof that Great Britain is seeking a pretext to intervene in the war between China and Japan. But this, the paper adds, the United States, France and Russia will not permit.

Presents from the King of Corea. London, September 9.—The Times will bublish this dispatch from Shanghai to-publish this dispatch from Shanghal tomorrow:

"An extraordinary mission has arrived in Tien-Tsin, conveying birthday presents from the king of Corea to the dowager empress, The mission will proceed to Pekin.

"There was a collision between the Chinese and Japanese near Ping Yang on the 7th. The high water almost prevents military operations."

The Times correspondent in Tien-Tsin says: "The British minister and the viceroy have signed a convention by which the Chinese telegraphs are to be connected with those of Burmah and India. The American gunboat Monacacy has arrived here. The war news received here is regarded as worthless."

SHOT IN HIS CELL. Link Wagoner, a Noted Desperado,

Killed by a Mob. Minden, La., September 9.-Link Wag goner, a noted desperado of North Louisiana and eastern Texas, was shot to death in his cell in the parish jail by a mob last night at 1 o'clock.

Waggoner was a perfect type of manly beauty and as brave as a lion. For the past five years he had been a terror in that country. Innumerable murders are laid at his door and his robberies were most daring. He was captured about a year ago at Nacogdoches, Tex., and brought to Homer, in Claiborne county, and tried on a charge of murder. The case was not proven against him and he was sent to the jai here for safe keeping to await trial on other charges against him.

While at Homer an attempt was made by a mob to kill him, but single handed-having in some unaccountable way obtained possession of a pistol—he kept the whole mob at bay until assistance arrived. Last night the jail here was broken into by a mob of seventy-five men who shot him dead in his cell, and then dispersed. Waggoner has three brothers in Nacogdoches, and it is believed that they will make an attempt to avenge his death. The desperado had a good many friends in this section of the country and they may also join in a feud which would be a bloody one from the out-

Three of the Members of the Memphis "Mob" Indicted for Murder. Memphis, Tenn., September 9.-The grand jury, which had been in session all day yesterday; at 10 o'clock last night returned six true bills against M. Strickfaden, Jim Perley and Ed Smith for murder.

They are charged with being parties to the lynching of the six negroes at Millington on the night of August 31st. These three men had already been arrested on bench warrants, but their indictment created considerable excitement. Following the action of the grand jury, Judge Cooper issued a bench warrant fo Assistant Jailer Wilcox on a charge of perjury. Wilcox, who was in the anteroon waiting to appear before the grand jury, was arrested and jailed. It is now reported that the mob which lynched the negroes did not consist of over ten persons, and this looks bad for Richardson, the detective, who stated it consisted of fifty men. Ten men would not have made the attack unless they had an understanding with Richardson. The whole plot will be laid bare in a day or so-at least that is what the officers say.

THE KERRVILLE LYNCHING. The Son of the Sheriff Gives the Plot

Memphis, Tenn., September 9.—The whole plot of the Kerrville lynching is now laid bare. Before many hours clapse it is thought every one who had anything to do with the affair, or the majority of them, will be behind the bars.

Bob McCarver, son of Sheriff McCarver, is the one who gave the necessary information. He was invited to participate in the killing by H. N. Smith, one of the men now in the county fail under indictment for murder in the first degree. It er, the sheriff, knew all about it and that Judge Cooper, of the criminal court, was not in the dark. These false representations were made by Smith for the purpose. of course, of mixing Sheriff McCarver up in the affair through his son, so his hands would be tied if an investigation should be instituted by the authorities. The schem failed. McCarver's examination resulted in the arrest of Jailer Wilcox for perjury and the binding over of McCarver in $10.000 bonds to insure his remaining in the city.

CHAINED TO A TREE.

A Negro Flend Found by the Sheriff. Just in Time. Huntsville, Tex., September 9.-A report was received by Sheriff Thurbur that fifteen-year-old daughter of Turner Selett had been outraged by Jim Webb, five miles east of town. The sheriff found Webl locked by a chain to a tree in the woods. He had been given a severe whipping and it is believed the intention was to finish him up last night, as the girl's father had the key. The girl claims Webb assaulted her Friday morning at a barn near the house. Her father came up, when Webl kicked him down and ran. Later he was caught and the chastisement administered Warrants have been issued for several of

The Pleasant Valley Feud. Phoenix, Ariz., September 9.—Another chapter of the famous and bloody Pleasant Valley feud has apparently been entered upon. Horace B. Schilly, a cattleman, was found riddled with rific balls and badly mutilated on Reno mountain yesterday. He was waylaid on his way to Phoenix. It is thought that this is the work of Tewksbury's faction. Schilly is the last of his family. The feud has now numbered thirty-one victims.

Cumberland, Md., September 9.-J. H. Patton, a prominent citizen of Washington Courthouse, O., was found dead in a berth of an east-bound Baltimore and Ohio sleep ing car here this morning. There was a large bruise on his stomach but nothing else was found to indicate the cause of his death.

Ironwood. Mich., September 3.—This morning Thomas Garrald, of Hurley, was arrested on the charge of drunkenness. An hour miss healer found the jall in flames and the prisoner was burned to a crism. He is supposed to have started the fire himself. The victim came to Hurley recently from Ashland. WAS NOT SURPRISED.

The Emperor Was Not Expecting Yery Much Courtesy

FROM THE AGRARIAN LEADERS.

Conservatives Will Return to the Emperor's Support.

BEFORE CONVICTIONS

Will Be Their Excuse-A Proposal to Abolish Universal Suffrage-William Has a New Drink.

Berlin, September 9.-It is too early to say what effect the emperor's speech will have on agrarian opposition. The noblemen at the head of the agrarian league have given no clear sign of their intentions, whatever they may be. They are still suilen and discontented.

While the emperor's Konigsberg plan was under consideration seeks ago, overtures were made to the great landlords of east_Prussia. The emperor indicated beyond doubt his eagerness to conciliate them. It was understood that these overtures had been successful and that Chancellor von Caprivi, to celebrate the end of the agrarian feud, would accompany his majesty to Konigsberg. In fact, the emperor's advances were rejected by the east Prussian nobility, who resigned themselves doggedly to a severe public reproof. Even this might have been averted or moderated, had the leading aristocrats of the Konigsberg district joined in the popular reception of the imperial party on September 4th. The empress had not visited Konigsberg before and all loyal Germans thought the agrarians would be courteous enough to sink temporarily their political differences and welcome her cordially. The agrarians thought otherwise. Among those receiving the royal couple there was not a conspicuous member of the Kanitz, Mirbach or Dohna families. The enthusiasm of the popular velcome left their absence unnoted by the general public, although in the imperial circle there was no lack of bitterness and contempt. To the emperor, this snub was no surprise. He had already given Count Doenhoff a special mark of favor. As this gentleman has got the cold shoulder from his neighbors ever since he cut loose from the agrarians and drew near the em peror, the emperor was not expecting abun dant agrarian courtesy. Effect of the Emperor's Speech.

Amid the varying press comments on the probable effect of the speech, are a few, published last evening. which touched the main question-will the Prussian nobility persist in their opposition? The authors of these pertinent articles argue that the emperor's appearance in the political arena will bring to him German land owners who for some time have fol-lowed. Mirbach, Ploet & Co., very reluctantly and have been eager to renew their political allegiance to the crown. The emperor's warcry—"For religion, morality and order against the force of revolt"—is taken as a direct appeal for support in is taken as a direct appear for support in the coming conflict between the govern-ment on one side and the social democrats and anarchists on the other. The liberals fear that the government will not keep the bounds thus defined. They suspect some reactionist proposals behind the im-perial phrases. They object, moreover, to the peculiar power which the emperor can, and of necessary will, employ to discipline recalcitrants by threatening to exclude them from the official places at court and the social functions so dear to the con ative heart. That the emperor will no hesitate to declare a boycott against stub-born opponents was shown by the exclusion of Counts Mirbach and Kanitz from the Konigsberg banquet. Very few Prussian noblemen could withstand such pressure. The Kreuz Zeitung, organ of the feude nobility, admits sorrowfully that the logical conclusion of the emperor's speech means the recompense of his friends and the dis grace of his adversaries. "Nevertheless," i says, "the government's economic policy s the throne that they happily find in fidelity to their constituents the strength necessary to bear with bitterness the imperial dis-

They Will Yield.

The Kreuz Zeitung is supposed to have struck the keynote of the uitimate surrender. While unwilling to yield unless demands for more protection be granted, the big conservatives are expected to return to their allegiance, one by one, u der the pretense that their loy-alty must go before their economic convictions. The liberals and radicals think that some reactionist measure may be the condition of the conservative party's return to the government fold.

The radical leaders say they understand that the Prussian government has been approached by conservatives with a propo to abolish universal suffrage, revive the anti-socialist laws, limit the right of assembly and suppress the right of boycott. The conservatives are said to have laid out a reactionist plan of campaign for the next session of the landtag. They will open this campaign, the radicals say, with a motion concerning the rights of assembl and association and will suffer no opposi tion from the government.

The proposal to restrict the franchise in imperial elections, comes from the extreme conservatives and has only a small hearing. While the Richter party are always con juring up fears of a reaction, their fore bodings are not entirely unfounded this time. The landtag undoubtedly will be the scene of the old time liberal struggle all along the line. The ministerial council will consider the conservative projects after the chancellor's return from Carlsbad,

The new American tariff gets its share of attention from the press, although no ody knows the status of the negotiations be-tween the Washington and Berlin governments.

The Kreus Zeitung proposes that Germany increase the sugar premium after the French method and give effect to the petition of the beet sugar producers for retaila-

The Freissinnige Zeitung says: "We hope that, for the sake of the exporters and the people at large, the government will do nothing likely to cloud Germany's economic relations to the United States. In several Austrian trades the new law has been welcomed cordially. The McKinley tariff almost killed the mother-of-pearl industry in Austria by piling up a tax that amounted to 140 per cent. Under the new rate, which is about 34 per cent, it will be possible to revive the business. The reduction of duties on gloves and bohemian glassware has been received thankfully by the Austrian manufacturers."

The Emperor's New Drink.

He had the results of all the big races in Baden-Baden telegraphed to him and sent congratulations to the successful prince of Feurstenberg. Camp talk is that the emperor has introduced among his officers a new and refreshing drink, which he learned to brew in the dragoons' mess at Aldershot. He uses three bottles of red wine, a fresh cucumber, leed and peeled, and three glasses of Maraschino. The mixture is not sweetened. It is called cucumber punch. ened. It is called cucumber punch.

The inauguration of the new reichstag building has been postponed at the emperor's instance, from October 18th, until the opening of the session in November. The agricultural exhibition in Treptow park, after attracting more visitors than any exhibition of its kind ever held in Germany, closes with a deficit of 30,000 marks. EIGHTING FOR FUN.

At Berlin Saturday Was a Great Day for the 17th Army Corps.

Berlin, September 9.—The seventeenth army corps maneuvered near Schlobitten yesterday, the western division making the advance. The commander of the eastern division sent forward the cavalry to attack the enemy's right wing. Two hussar regiments led the charge, which was exe-cuted magnificently, despite the unevenness of the ground. They broke through the line of skirmishers, but upon meeting the com-pact bodies of troops behind, were forced to retreat hastily with heavy losses.

Two other cavalry brigades were sent out by the eastern army but they did no bet-ter. Meantime the artillery of the western division had silenced the eastern army's guns, thus deciding the issue of the battle. The eastern commander found his position untenable and fell back on Pomehrendorf, suffering from the heavy artillery fire during suffering from the heavy artillery fire during

The experts praised most highly the handling of the artillery, especially the ability with which the western division's guns were brought up, unobserved by the enemy, to a position behind the low hills, north of Pittelhof. Emperor William delivered his criticism to the generals on the sandy plain of Gruenau, and then rode away with his suite to the Elbing railroad station.

HAWAIPS LEGISLATURE

Will Be Elected on October 29th-The Natives Registering.

Victoria, B. C., September 9.-Honolulu advices per steamer Warrimoo under date of September 1st, say: The president and cabinet have appointed the election of a legislature to take place on October 29th.

Registration is in active progress. In some districts the natives have registered in considerable numbers. In a majority of the districts not more than 10 per cent of the native voters have come forward. They are waiting to know whether the queen is to be restored. Two months remain for registering. The government will use all possible means to make the natives understand that the queen can hope to have no help from Washington. Notwithstanding President Cleveland's recognitiin of the re public of Hawaii some native papers contin ue to assure the people that the queen will certainly be restored. Her commissioners arrived back from Washington on the 30th. They are very reticent but permit the idea to go forth that they have valuable private assurances in the queen's favor. It is believed that they will soon make known that their mission has proved that there is no hope of her restoration to the throne.

CHOLERA IN A HYGIENIC CONGERS. No Doctors Stricken, but the Disease

Severely Handled. Buda-Pesth, September 9.-At the session of the hygienic congress Saturday an interesting paper on cholera was read by Dr. Ernest Harts. He argued that the disease came from the valley of the Ganges, where there is an utter disregard of sanitary precautions, and where the people habitually drink polluted water.

Dr. Harts said it seemed certain that persons could touch and even rub cholera patients with impunity. The danger con-sisted of the swallowing of the bacillus, which Dr. Harts contended, live two lives, one in the human body, multiplying within the patient and poured forth by him abundantly, and the other outside the body in damp ground, dirty water, linen, etc., waiting to be swallowed by some one else in order to start again its destructive course.

"Cholera," he added, "is spread broadcast by pilgrims to Mecca and elsewhere. The government of India must watch the fairs and festivals in that country and Europe, by international agreement should guard the pilgrim's track, by isolating early cases. The sultan of Turkey ought to adopt measures for the thorough sanitation of Mecca, which is a nursery of cholera."

The international hygienic congress ad-journed today, after selecting Madrid for journed today, after selecti the next place of meeting.

Geneva, September 9.—Arthur Zimmerman won the international five-kilometer race here today. Time, 8:251-5. In a preliminary heat Zimmerman covered the distance in 8:312-5. Bonzieno was second in the match race and Kubier third. The rack was very damp.

Paris, September 9.—Dumond won the kilometer tricycle race at the Veolodroms de la Seine today, and with it the championship of France.

German Comment.

London, September 2.—The Berlin correspondents say that the German dailies speak of the count of Paris as an amiable man, who never expected and probably never wished to become king of France. The Vienna press makes similar comments. The Spanish court has gone into mourning for eightern days.

THE KING'S COUNTRY.

Mr. W. L. Scruggs Writes About Trinidad, the Country of the Self-Made King.

TELLS ABOUT ITS PAST AND PRESENT. It Is Not Half Bad as a Country and the Newspaper Man Who Bules It Has a Good Time.

"The Man Who Would Be King," of whom Kipling has so charmingly told in one of his best stories, has found a parallel in actual life. An editorial in yesterday's Constitution told the story of the American newspaper man, James Harden Hickey, who, tiring of newspaper work became king of Trinidad The real story is strikingly like the fanciful story of Kipling, for his hero was a newspaper man, only he did not remain a king very long. People who read the editorial yesterday Instantly wanted to know about the country over which this self-made king was ruler and they began inquiry at once. Of Trinidad and its history Mr. William L. Scruggs has many interesting things to say, and those who were interested in the story of the newspaper man who is a king will read what he has to say of it with exceptional interest. He sends in the following: Editor Constitution—Can the island of Trinidad, to which you refer in your editorial of Sunday, headed "A Newspaper Man's Ambition," be the British crown colony in the guif of Parla, off the Venequelan coast, near the Orinoco delta? I imagine this can hardly be the case; and yet you allude to its "asphalt industry," and I recall no other island having similar interests.

Trinidad to which I refer was dis covered by Columbus during his third and lest voyage, in 1498. He took possession of it in the name of the Spanish king, who lest voyage, in 1498. He took possession of it in the name of the Spanish king, who held it in undisputed possession for three centuries. During the war between England and Spain, in 1796-7, England took possession of Trinidad under the terms of the capitulation of February, 1797.

In 1802 this military occupation of the island by Great Britain was confirmed by the treaty of Amiens. Since then it has been a British crown colony. Its immense asphalt industry is owned principally by an old gentleman and his sons, named Stalimyer. The elder Stalimyer, who is now a man far advanced in the elghties, was formerly a newspaper man in Philadelphia. About half a century ago, he left Philadelphia and settled in London; and from London he migrated to Trinidad, where he still resides.

Connected with the British occupation of Trinidad, and with the recent British aggressions in Venezuelan Guiana and at the Orinoco delta, is another bit of curious history. On the extreme northwest side of the gulf of Paria, near its main entrance from the Atlantic, is a small uninhabited island, known as Patos, or "Duck island." It is very much nearer the Venezuelan mainland than it is to Trinidad, and has always been regarded as Venezuelan territory. But in 1859, very much to the surprise of everybody, the British authorities at Trinidad demanded the surrender of some smuggiling crafts which had been captured at Patos by the Venezuelan revenue authorities.

This led to a protracted diplomatic cor-captured at Patos by the Venezuelan revenue authorities.

This led to a protracted diplomatic correspondence in which Great Britain laid claim to Patos on the ground that it was constructively included in the cession of 1802. Of course this pretension was the baldest absurdity, since the cession of Amiens was expressly limited to the island of Trinidad. Nor could the British claim to Patos be sustained by the principle of proximity; for it is a generally recognized doctrine of public law that small islands in the sea belong to the nearest continent. All the standard authorities are agreed on this point. The territory of a nation in-All the standard authorities are agreed on this point. The territory of a nation includes the islands surrounded by its waters, and "its dominion ever the open sea on its coasts is coextensive with the projectile range of its weapons." It is as manifest as anything can be that neither by the terms of the treaty of Amiens, nor by the established law and usage of nations, nor yet by prescription, can Great Britain have the slightest claim to the island of Patos. And yet she contiues to hold it. The island itself is practically worthless. But its situation is such as to command the main entrance from the Atlantic through the gulf of Paria to the Orinoco delta. a portion of which Great Britain selzed in 1886 without the least color of title and without provocation; and this fact fully explains her present contention for the dominion of Patos.

It now remains to be seen whether the

It now remains to be seen whether the moral sense of the civilized world will sustain this species of filibustering by a European power on the territory of an American republic.

Respectfully,
WILLIAM L. SCRUGGS.

TALK ABOUT THE PLANS.

An Architect Talks About the Plans Accepted.

The complaint of some of the competing architects over the awarding of the plans for the Boys' High school building has been the talk of the town for four or five days

It may be set down as definite and certain, however, that the action of the build-ing committee in the matter is final. The committee is thoroughly satisfied, but the architects are still talking. Captain J. W. English, a member of the committee, says e was not present when the plan was dopted, but that he heartily concurs in the action taken.

Mr. W. G. Rogers, one of the competing architects, writes the following card:

"Editor Constitution—I take the liberty to present to you for publication in your col-umns, subject to your approval, some few remarks which may not be out of order just at this time, and may suggest some present to you for publication in your columns, subject to your approval, some few remarks which may not be out of order just at this time, and may suggest some ideas that may prove of use in adjusting the differences brought about by the selection of the design for the Boys' High school building and the mode of conducting competition in general. The minds of the architects and a number of citizens seem to have been disturbed to a certain extent, and I feel that it would be but proper to make some suggestions to remedy the evils, if such they are, and in making them I act as an individual and give them in the interest of the community, for if there is any one thing that should interest the citizens of a city it is the proper and intelligent selection of its designs for public or private buildings. To accomplish this we must have experts to judge the plans submitted and have none selected but those which will stand as monuments to our taste and skill. Now as to the lucky competitors and their ability as architects I have nothing to say, but I do venture to remark if the plans are as Mr. Norrman expresses it, 'unsafe and inferior' to others presented, then the architects or citizens who have any interest in the way this money is expended have a right to demand that the plans be given an examination by one or more experts and have the matter judged as it should be'. I think Mr. Norrman's action justified, if the accepted design is, as he says, unsafe. Not having seen the drawing I am not able to express any opinion, but if such charges exist I favor the matter being looked into, and if the plans are unsafe the city should not be compelled to accept them. Mr. Hendrix is no doubt a good real estate man, and parsonally I have naught to say against him, but as a judge of architectural work he has got beyond his depth and I regard him as anything but a success from an architectural point of view. I am not at all sorry for any architect who entered the competition, myself included, for we were all aware that the competi prominent in city affairs should give it their attention, as the class of work now being done is of a character not to be slighted for mercenary motives.

"There should also be a law governing competitions forcity work, so that architects could enter them with some definite idea as to price and requirements and have no room for complaint on any side, Respectfully,

"Architect." Short Stories of Minor Happenings Gathered from Many Sources.

The Baltimore Manufacturers' Record.

It is very doubtful if any other city in the world of Atlanta's size would have the courage to undertake such an enterprise as this on the scale on which this exposition has been planned. But for the fact that Atlanta has never failed to prove equal to the occasion when tested in this way, we might well doubt its ability to measure fully up to the responsibility that it has shouldered. The Manufacturers' Record has faith in Atlanta and faith in its success. It will, we believe, give the world an unanswerable proof of the tremendous energy and executive ability of the people of the south when once fully aroused of the importance of any undertaking. Atlanta typifies the awakening south, determined to utilize to the fullest the material blessings with which nature has favored it.

Mr. Bennett was then made trainmaster at Atlanta. He is succeeded in Birmingham by Mr. G. H. Williams, who has been for some time past trainmaster at Rome. These appointments will be in effect today.

Fight Between East and West. The same old fight between the eastern and western roads that has been fought for two or three years, is looming up again as a great squabble.

It is claimed by the western roads leading to the south from Chicago that the eastern lines have a basis of freight rates much more advantageous than those enjoyed by the western lines, and for this reason the merchants of New York and eastern market centers have a great deal better chance to get the southern trade than have the merchants of the west, and particularly Chicago.

The western lines have been before the interstate commission with the war, and now the eastern lines are fighting the claims set up before the commission by the western roads.

The western roads are now claiming that the eastern lines do not estimate the cost of transportation in the fixing of a basis for rates. Along this line the following interesting article from The Chicago Herald concerns the merchants and jobbers of At-lanta and all southern towns:

interesting article from The Chicago Herald concerns the merchants and jobbers of Atlanta and all southern towns:

"This principle is a necessity of the railroad business, as it is manifestly impossible for a car of coal to stand the transportation tax levied on a car of silks. Should all rates be reduced to the coal level every road in the country would go into bankruptcy. If they were raised to the silk rate level they could lay their tracks with gold rails, a hundred pounds to the yard. No road can tell what it costs to transport a ton of freight. It is only possible to strike a general average at the end of the year. Low class articles take a rate far below the average, while high class freight rates are equally above the average. Again, as Mr. Ripley testified: 'It is simply a question of how much the traffic will justly bear.'

"Whether or not the justice of this principle can be proved in court, it is difficult to see how it will benefit the case of the southern lines. The actual facts are that by the machinations of the Southern Railway and Steamship Association, a body which the interstate commission has promounced illegally organized and a menace to the public, rates are unreasonably high from Chicago to the south as compared with those from New York and the east to the south. If the distances were all equalized this discrimination would amount to about 30 per cent. In other words, Chicago merchants, in competition with those of the east to equally distant southern points, must pay 30 per cent higher rates. This, in many cases, compels Chicago merchants to ship via New York to southern points, must pay 30 per cent higher rates. This, in many cases, compels Chicago merchants to ship via New York. This being so, it is not manifest how proof of the principle named above can help the southern roads when the contention of the Chicago freight bureau and its Cincinnati sister organization is for a reduction of rates to meet competition from another and equality distant territory. However, General Counsel Bax with a star chamber session in which he backed up in his feeble way the testimony already given."

WHAT HIDDENITE IS.

A Crystal More Valuable Than Diamonds Found in North Carolina. In reply to a letter inquiring about hiddenite, Professor W. S. Yeates the state geologist, gives this information which is of general interest:

"State of Georgia, Geological Survey,

Camp Near Pine Mountain, Rabun County, Ga., May 14, 1894.—Mr. R. J. Redding, Experiment, Ga.—Hiddenite is a transparent variety of spodumene, ranging in color from a yellowish-green to emerald green. About the year 1882, Mr. W. E. Hidden, as agent for Mr. T. A. Edison, the inventor, was hunting for platinum in North Carolina. In the local collection of minerals of Mr. J. A. D. Stephenson of Statesville, Ire-dell county, N. C., he noticed two trans-Mr. J. A. D. Stephenson of Statesville, Iredeell county, N. C., he noticed two transparent green crystals, labeled diopside. Mr. Hidden, doubting the correctness of this label, was permitted by Mr. Stephenson to send the crystals to the celebrated chemist and mineralogist, Dr. J. Lawrence Smith, of Louisville, Ky., who found them to be spodumene and named them hiddenite. Mr. Hidden was shown the place where the crystals were found, near White Plains Postoffice, in Alexander county, North Carolins, and, on searching, he found others. He had some of the crystals cut, obtaining very beautiful stones from them. He interested some northern capitalists in the matter and succeeded in forming a company, who leased or purchased the property, and began systematically mining for hiddenite and emeralds, under the name of the Emerald and Hiddenite Mining Company, with Mr. Hidden as manager of the work. They met with some success; but the crystals were never found in abundance, and the locality has only been worked spasmodically. Among the emeralds that were taken out, the two finest ever found in the United States, are in the magnificent mineral collection of Mr. Clarence S. Bement, of Philadelphia, for which Mr. Bement paid $1,100. An excellent cromo-lithograph of the largest of these can be found in King's gems of North America.

The principal work has been done in an open cut through the residual clay, in which the hiddenite and emeralds were found, together with other minerals, in pockets. One or two pits were sunk through the underlying gnelss; but, at the time of my visit, these were filled with water, the mines not being worked at that time. I understand that one or two attempts have been made since then to operate the mines, but with what success I am not informed. Its great rarity causes and were it not so scarce, it would be a universal favorite. Its great rarity causes it to command an unusually high price for a colored stone. The larger stones bring higher prices than first-water diamonds of the same size.

BETTER TIMES.

Chattanooga Times: The tariff law as it now stands should at once bring about a better condition of affairs. The fact alone that the climax has been reached which gives the people the positive assurance of fixed rates on exports and imports will act favorably in the marts and will set the wheels of commerce to revolving. manufacturers can now form their plans for the future with the certainty of fair profits. The uncertainty has given way to the positive, and from this time on the American people can confidently hope for better times.

Boston Globe: The very atmosphere of business and financial circles is charged with new hope and fresh life. The preva-lence of a decided opinion that "the corner lence of a decided opinion that "the corner has been turned" is manifest. This opinion isn't a doubtful, hesitating, helf-way sort of a belief that lacks the element of sincerity. Neither is it the expression of an empty hope that better times are coming. Better than this, the conviction is based on substantial grounds. It is the outgrowth of the renewed hum of the wheels of industry.

Wheeling Register: From every section of the country come reports of improvements in all branches of trade, and a feeling of confidence permeates the business atmos-phere. In New England the carpet mills have not only started up after an idieness of nine months, but in some instances the 10 per cent reduction of wages, enforced under the McKinley act, has been restored, showing that under the democratic tariff, the manufacturers expect to do an increased business and to be able to pay better wages.

Brooklyn Eagle: The revival of trade will be followed by a revival of prosperity in the manufacturing centers. The surplus stock which was in the storehouses of the factories has been exhausted, and the mills must be started again to supply demand.

Hartford Times: In every part of the country there seems to be a revival of business, if not of great proportions, still a movement upward, with brighter prospects. The rush to withdraw goods from custom houses is an implication of increased activity in manufacturing and trade interests that will command attention.

Baltimore Herald: As to the lasting re-vival of the industries incident to the growth of the foreign trade which is ex-pected to result from the new act, time will have to prove this claim. Cartainly all the pected to result from the new act, time with have to prove this claim. Certainly all the indications thus far are favorable to the conclusion that the country is entering upon an era of substantial business pros-

Macon, Ga., September 9.—(Special.)—The democratic primary for county officers will occur on September 27th. As yet there is no contest for any position except that of sheriff. The present incumbent, Sam Westcott, is opposed by Mack Davis. It is not believed that any of the other incumbents will have convertion.

will have opposition.

The places to be voted for are as follows:
Clerk of the superior court. The present incumbent is Hon. R. A. Nisbet. He has held the office four years and has made an admirable clerk. His deputies are firstclass men in every way. Mr. Nisbet is one of the most popular men in the county. It would be useless to try and beat him. He would be useless to try and beat him. He has represented Bibb in the legislature, has been chairman of the democratic executive committee of the county and is president of the board of public education. He is a rock-ribbed democrat.

Sam Wescott has been sheriff twelve years. There is ni complaint whatever as to the manner in which he has conducted the affairs of the office. This has been gilt-edge and always at the A No. 1 standard. During Westcott's incumbency he has had two lively contests for the office, but he won both. His opponent this time is a highly esteemed and worthy young gentle-man, Mack Davis. He has been making an active campaign for months, and has, doubtless, talked to every man in the county. It is not known who will run with Mr.

Davis as deputies, jaller, etc.

Tax Receiver Bob Anderson will, of course, have no opposition. This popular one-arm veteran never does. He has been holding the office many years by common consent of all the people. He attends strictly to business and has always given perfect satisfaction to all concerned. He is the satisfaction to all concerned. He is the right man in the right place.

Albert Jones is a candidate for re-election

as tax collector. He succeeded his father two or three years ago, who died while he was serving his first time. Albert Jones is, perhaps, the youngest tax collector in the state, but he is one of the very best. He easily gave his bond of $75,000 and entered upon the discharge of his duties with the good will of the whole people, which he will, no doubt, always retain. Frank Knight will be nominated for coroner. At a primary held a few weeks ago he was nominated for the unexpired term of Commer Hodnett, deceased. On the 27th he will be nominated for the full term of two years, beginning January 1, 1895. Knight has been coroner before and made a good officer. He is a one-armed veteran.

County Surveyor George Birch has been efficient in his office, and always prompt to serve the people, He is a faithful offit.

There will be no nomination this year for ordinary and county commissioner. Pheir terms run two years longer. Revolution at the Park. Revolution at the Park.

The grounds and buildings at Central City park are being placed in splendid condition, preparatory to the opening of the Dixle Interstate fair. The exhibition buildings are being thoroughly repaired, and in some instances new buildings, practically, are being made. The carpenter and painter are making great changes in the appearance of the buildings. The grounds are being cleared of all weeds, and the terraced banks of the river have been put in fine shape. One of the greatest improvements is in the mile track. Captain Jim Simpson, an expert, has a force of twenty-five men at work, and when he has finished it will be unquestionably the finest course in the south. No such artistic work has been done on the track since it was first constructed, in 1871. Some of the best horses in the country will be here during the fair, and the improved condition of the track will permit of fine speed. There is an connected with the present working of the track and the general repair of the park buildings. The improvements are being made under the supervision of Messrs. J. N. Hazlehurst the supervision of Messrs. J. N. Hazlehurst and William Lee Ellis, public works commissioners. The mile race track was laid off in 1871 by the late George H. Hazlehurst, father of Commissioner Hazlehurst. The city council made an appropriation and sent Hazlehurst north to inspect tracks, and he adopted the style and shape now borne by the Macon track. Captain James Simpson superintended its construction, and twenty-three years later he is engaged superintending the biggest work done on the track since it was first built. Mr. Ellis, as a member of the city council, was on the building committee that erected the exhibition building in 1871, and now as a commissioner he supervises their general repair.

The editor-in-chief will be Mr. Fred T. Lofton, originally of Indiana, but lately of Knoxville, where he did spiendid work on The Sentinel. Mr. Lofton is said to be a very bright writer and most charming gentleman. Mr. Tom Loyless will be city editor. He has no superior in this line in the state, and the local columns, like the editorial, will always be interesting. Mr. R. L. McKenny will be business manager. This is sufficient guarantee that the paper will be prosperous and successful. He is energetic, active and experienced.

DIDN'T GET THE NEGRO. He Was a Highwayman and Horse

Thief. Tifton, Ga., September 9.—(Special.)—An attempt was made near Ashburn, on the Georgia Southern and Florida railroad, to arrest a negro by the name of Will King Thomas. He stood the officer; off with a Winchester, and while the officer was gone after reinforcements, he concluded that the country was becoming a little too warm even for him and decided that a little trip off would be beneficial. Not having a pass or money to secure a ticket for the train, he determined to impress something. Meeting Mr. J. B. Hancock, who was going to Ashburn in his buggy, he halted him, and deliberately cutting the harness from the horse, mounted him, and going to a neighhouse, told him that a negro had stolen a bag of money from Mr. Ludlow, a turpentine operator, and that he wanted to borrow his saddle to go on the hunt for him. The saddle was secured, and the desperado being thus equipped, set out through the country.

Very shortly the true state of affairs became known, and telegrams were sent out in every direction. One reached this place and the marshal and constable took steps to intercept him.

At 11:30 o'clock the constable and his crowd met the negro as he was coming into town on the appropriated horse, He was promptly halted, but declining arrest, jumped from the horse and fired two shots from his Winchester at the posse and then dis-appeared in some near-by bushes and hasn't been heard of since. The constable and his men succeeded in firing one shot but don't think it hit anything. The horse was left by the robber and returned to its owner. Thanking Their Friends.

At the regular meeting of the Wenona Juvenile Temple No. 46, held September 9, 1894, the following resolutions were adopted thanking Mr. A. W. Bealer for his inimitable pictures from the life of the Georgia darky, at their last entertainment, and also Miss Kate Brown, Mr. J. J. Logne, Mr. Virginia and Georgia railroad, for headlight; to Messrs. Foote & Davies, for tickets; to Mr. J. M. Miller, for programmes; and to Epworth church, for lamps and chairs.

HABERSHAM SUPERIOR COURT. Joe and Jack English Found Guilty

Clarkesville, Ga., September 9.—(Special.) The superior court of Habersham county has been in session this week. The only case of public interest was the trial of Jo and Jack English, for the murder of Roe Waldrupe, which occurred at Demorest the 4th of July last. The defendants were found guilty of murder and Jack English was recommended to the mercy of the court. Sentence will be pronounced some time next week. The defendants were ably represented by Judge J. B. Estes, Charles Bass and Jones & Bowden. Hon. M. F. Perkins and George P. Erwin assisted Solicitor Thompson in the prosecution. A motion for a new trial will be made, it is thought.

Mr. Arthur Thompson was admitted to the bar last Saturday. Mr. Thompson, who has been residing in Clarkesville for some time, is the son of Mr. A. W. Thompson, a very prominent citizen of Senesa. S. C. Young Thompson is a very bright and promising young man. He has been a stu-dent of Emory college and made an unusually fine record. He studied long under Colonel J. J. Bowden and stood a very fine examination and won much praise from the bar. A very bright future is pre-dicted for him in his chosen profession.

The session of the court has been enliven ed by political speeches during the dinner hours. Tuesday Hon. W. R. Little, of Franklin county, candidate for senator from the district, delivered a telling speech. Friday Hon. H. H. Carlton, of Athens, and Colonel Harry Reid, of Atlanta, made elo-quent appeals for democracy and much enthusiasm was aroused. Habersham's democratic majority will be larger than it was in '92. The people's party has lost many followers here. Colonel Tate is stronger in this county than he ever was.

Mr. E. J. Christy, chairman of the executive committee, together with Mr. Charles L. Ball, chairman of the Central Democratic Club, are organizing clubs in every district and having rallies in every part of the county.

This is perhaps the last court in Haber-

This is perhaps the last court in Habersham county over which Judge C. J. Wellborn will preside, as he declined to be a candidate for re-election, although his candidacy would receive the heartiest approval. There is much regret expressed at his retirement. He has endcared himself greatly to the bar and people of this circuit by his superiority, honesty, impartiality and fidelity to duty.

Several years ago the Clarkes, of New York, of spool cotton fame, had some land grants in Florida, and they projected this line in order to open up the property. Between $50,000 and $75,000 was spent in grading the line and purchasing crossties, but the work was never carried any further. President Wilkinson and a few of his friends, bought out the property and reorganized it, and they expect to complete it within a short time. About two hundred of the longshoremen held a meeting tonight and it is said, have determined upon some plan of action, but what it is none of them will say. Baltimore, September 9.-A remarkable change has taken place of recent times in the egg industry through the introduction of cold storage appliances, and it is now possible to sell eggs almost as cheap in December and January as in May, aside from the influence of speculation. Some interesting points relating to this industry were brought out recently by the purchase of an immense number of eggs by a Balti-more retail merchant. There were four car loads, each containing 400 cases, and each case containing thirty dozen eggs, making in all 12,000 dozen, or 576,000 eggs. Some eggs were put on present sale, but the majority were stored away for use next winter. Eggs put in cold storage will keep fresh for from eight to ten or twelve months, and a Baltimore physician has given his opinion that a cold storage egg is better than a fresh egg, as any germs of disease that may collect on the shell of an egg by the frequent handling it receives is small as compared with the number of

WHAT NEXT? A short time ago a young St. Louis law yer accidentally shot himself, and, as he lay on the floor of his office gasping, and with blood flowing from his wound, he cried aloud to the surgeons who had been sums who had been summoned by Iriends, and who, representing different facilions of the medical profession, hesitated as to which should proceed to his assistance. "For God's sake, gentlemen, don't let me die because of your code of ethics."

About two months ago a promin en t

ago a promine n to the same city was expelled from the faculty of a medical college because he alluded a fellow physician, who did not recognize he code of ethics, as "his friend and colargue."

This is a practical, business-like age. We This is a practical, business-like lege. We are a practical, business-like people. Such instances as the foregoing would be absurd and laughable if they were not pitful.

The code of ethics prescribes not only the conduct of physicians, but regulates the prices that should be charged by them for prices that should be charged by them for their services.

The result is that the people are afraid of large doctor bills, and, in the majority of cases, when they become ill they suffer until their complaint becomes aggravated before they attempt to consult a physician. Any effort to place the services of a physician within the reach of all in the usual practical, business-like way followed by all other professions, is not only frowned down by the medical fraternity, but is met by it with open and violent hostility.

ATLANTA, GA., September 16, 1894.

A Campaign of Condemnation. It must be apparent to careful observers that the south is shortly to witness a political experiment that can only be described as a campaign of condemnation. It has already begun. In Georgia and in Texas the democratic voters are to be asked to endorse the processes by which the money sharks have abolished more than one-half of the debt-paying money of the people, and we presume the same polite request will be urged in other southern states, The democratic voters are to be asked to condemn the financial pledge of the Chicago platform. They are to be urged to surrender democratic principles, and to condemn the acts and votes of those honest democratic senators and representatives who, true to the party pledge true to their own convictions, and true to the overwhelming sentiments of their constituents, voted for the free coinage of silver.

This is the goldbug programme. The democrats of Georgia, of Texas, and of the south, are to be asked to condemn their party pledge and the senators and representatives who stood true to that pledge. We shall watch with interest the progress of this campaign of condemnation. That it will be carried forward vigorously, we have no doubt. Wherever the hand of patronage has bestowed a crumb, or wherever it holds out a promise, there will be found tumultuous enthusiasm in behalf of the pro cesses by which more than half of the debt-paying money of the country has been abolished as a standard money metal.

This campaign will be interesting to those who study political phenomena. It will put the unity of the democratic party to the severest test it has been called on to endure since the war. How far it will stand the strain and pressure of such a test we are unable to say-no man can say; but we sincerely trust that the people will dispose of this fresh attack on their rights and interests in a way that will preserve the party and maintain democratic principles in their

The campaign of condemnation will not only test the unity of the party, but will test the sanity of the people In Georgia, Secretary Smith says he opposes the free coinage of silver because it will flood the country with depre ciated currency and cause an unhealthy rise in prices, while in Texas, Senator Mills, who has heretofore been one of the foremost champions of free coinage, opposes it because "It will not add a dollar to the currency of the country.' Secretary Smith says that if we open our mints to silver it will add a flood of depreciated money to the currency. Senator Mills declares that if we open our mints to silver "money would decline, and we would have no more than we have now." The little boy who dreamed that he saw a ghost said it "looked like a gray mule or a black hoss," he forgot which. Secretary Smith has dreamed one dream and Senator Mills has dreamed another and though they both are sleeping in the same single gold standard bed, their dreams are as different as if one slept at the north pole and the other at the equator. Secretary Smith is opposed to free coinage because it will give the people too much money, and Senator Mills is opposed to free coinage because it will not add another dollar to the currency. Now the people can take their choice between these two assumptions. They can accept one or they can accept the other; but it seems to us that the very fact that these two distinguished gentlemen, who are arguing in favor of goldbuggery under the thin disguise of "bimetallism," differ so widely in their conclusions ought to convince intelligent people that neither of them is right. One goes headlong wrong one way, and the other goes headlong wrong the other way, but both are intent on convincing the people that the congressmen who voted for free coinage and against the repudiation of the democratic pledge ought to be condemned; both are intent on perpetuating the great republican crime of demonetization.

If Mr. Mills's conclusion is the correct one Secretary, Smith's arguments are as worthless as they are reckless. If Secretary Smith's arguments are correct, Senator Mills's conclusions are as wild as if they had been invented by a Texas steer going at full speed through the underbrush. It is impossible to reconcile the assumptions of these distinguished converts to the republican theory of finance. Mr. Mills will continue to ask the democrats of Texas to condemn their party's policy and the men who voted for it in congress because "free coinage will not add a dollar to the currency of the country," and Secretary Smith will, no doubt, continue to urge the democrats of Georgia to repudiate their congressmen and their state platform because free coinage will flood the country with depreciated dolpaign of condemnation is begun. How many democrats are there in Georgia r in Texas who will stultify themselves by approving it?

We say nothing now of the effect this campaign may have on another campaign that is of far more importance to the people of Georgia at this momentthe effort of the democratic party to convince the people that the failure of ongress to carry out the pledges of the platform were not due to a change of democratic policy, but to unforeseen obstacles which the party in congress was powerless to overcome. Mr. Atkinson, the democratic candidate for governor, is conspicuous as the leader of this effort, and it is a movement of such importance that he has taken pains to declare on the stump, wherever he has spoken both before and after his nomination, that the free and unlimited coinage of silver is the democratic pledgethe democratic policy. He has gone further than this. He declared in the first speech he made after his nomination as the democratic candidate for governor, that "no man can go on the stump in the state of Georgia, and, in the name of the democracy, oppose the free and unlimited coinage of silver."

That being the simple truth, The Constitution desires to ask in whose name and in behalf of what party Judge Turner and Secretary Smith are opposing the free and unlimited coinage of silver? Back Number Ideas.

In his recent speech to his nobles the Emperor William, of Germany, said: tain a capable peasantry that will be a pillar of support to my m ar of support to my monarchy.

We can imagine such talk from a king two hundred years ago, but it is out of date now. William apparently believed that the peasantry-the common people -were created simply to support his monarchy. The idea has never occurred to him that Germany really belongs to the people and not to him. He wants to keep millions of his subjects just ignorant enough and poor enough to look to him as their master. This is what he calls supporting his monarchy.

In America we have reversed this idea. Here the people rule and nothing is left undone to increase their intelli gence and their capacity for self-government. They look to no one man as the arbiter of their destinies, their war lord and their patron in peace. No man in even the highest office in our republic would dare to claim that he was by divine right the superior of millions of his fellow citizens, and he would doubtless be sent to a lunatic asylum if he should declare that the common people were mainly useful as a pillar of support to his government.

The German emperor believes that all the wisdom, virtue, glory and power of the empire are centered in him. He looks upon the masses as dumb beasts to be driven, taxed, made food for powder when it suits him, and to be judiciously petted like so many children, as a reward for their blind obedience. There must be an end to all this Democratic ideas are leavening the German masses, and if they cannot move in the direction of democracy they will try a socialistic revolution before many William is the grandson of Vic Why will be not at least follow toria. the example of that sovereign and con sent to constitutional reforms that will place his country in line with England If he sticks to his seventeenth century ideas there will be a revolt sooner or

An Indiana Experiment.

A new colony in Tennessee, about two see City, is attracting es from Tenn considerable attention just now. It seems that some Indiana farmers decided to come south a year or so ago. They had their doubts about their reception, and so they organized a colony, purchased a big tract of land in Tennes see and settled on it in a body. They are building a town, and with their own churches, schools, newspaper and other institutions they will pull together and feel at home in a strange land.

These Indianians will find when they get better acquainted with our people that it was not necessary for them to organize a colony. They could scatter and go singly into any southern state and receive a cordial welcome if they are good citizens. Still, there is no ob jection to the colony system, and it is strange that it has not been more genrally tried by northern people who desire to make their homes in this region It would be an easy matter to organize numerous colonies of well-to-do north ern farmers for settlement in the south. With their united funds they would be able to get good bargains in land, and they could then go to work and build villages and towns to suit themselves. The co-operative plan in some matters would enable them to establish them selves more cheaply than if they had to depend upon their individual efforts

It is to be hoped that the Indianians in Tennessee will make a success of their experiment—a success that will induce others to follow their example. We need a good class of immigrants and there is room here for millions of them.

The Old Story.

An apparently well founded rumor onnects the names of Mrs. Nellie Grant Sartoris and Major H. Kyd Douglas, of Maryland, and it is said that their marriage will take place in the near future. Major Douglas was an officer on Stonewall Jackson's staff, and in his Virginia campaigns he did some hard fighting against General Grant. But all that goes for nothing now. The gallant ex-confederate and the great commander's daughter understand each other, and they are thoroughly convinced that the war is over, and that it is time for the blue and the gray to be linked together. It is all right and it is simply the repetition of a very old story. In all ages and in all countries the sons and daughters of the brave men who fought each other in the field have given bond in Cupid's court to keep the peace, and in their own sweet way they have blotted out the bitter memories of the past and made love take the place of bate. The Wars of the Roses caused Englishmen to cut one another's throats with even more fury than was exhibited in flood the country with depreciated dol-lars. That is the programme. The cam-was over love again ruled the camp, and ourt and field, and the business of marying and giving in marriage was re umed at the old stand. The descend ants of those who took part in England's long civil war intermarried, and their children today care no more about the feud of their ancestors than they do about the agrarian troubles in ancient

It will be the same way in this coun try. We are one people with one desready on very good terms. Sometimes the politicians pretend that there some ill feeling between the sections, but there is really nothing of it. If General Grant were alive today it would give him more genuine pleasure to see his favorite child united to his old foeman than he felt when she married Sartoris and went to his stately home over the sea. All true Americans have this feeling. They know when to make war and when to make love, and when their family fights are over they are the readlest people in the world to forget the past and pull together.

So we hope that the rumor is true. When the blue and the gray are made one, and go to housekeeping, this will be a happy country. All's well that ends well.

Money's Purchasing Power. The complaint made by the friends of silver that there has been a steady fall of prices under the single gold standard has not been fairly and squarely met by the goldbugs. It is claimed by such papers as The New York Evening Post that the western farmer can buy more goods today with one hundred bushels of wheat at 45 cents than he could two years ago with wheat at 60 cents, and it is also asserted that the reduction in the price of food and clothing in the eastern cities makes the low wages of the present time purchase more than they would in 1885.

This sweeping statement is very far from the truth, but even if it were true, there is another point to be considered. As The Pittsburg Dispatch puts it, if a man bought a farm or a house a few years ago on credit he cannot now pay as much of his indebtedness with his abor as he could then. The Evening Post contends that the money standard has not appreciated, but its statements prove that it has. If $45 will buy as much now as could have been bought two years ago with $60, obtained by the sale of one hundred bushels of wheat, it is plain that the value of money has increased, and it follows that the man who pays an old debt now is really paying more than he received. For instance, if he borrowed $60 two years ago, and pays that amount to his cred-Itor now he is paying $15 more than he borrowed, because the increased purchasing power of money will enable the creditor to buy as much with $45 as he could have bought with $60 two years ago. It will not do to reply that this is the debtor's misfortune, and that he should have kept out of debt. In this country nine men in ten are in debt. The government, the states, our cities and counties and individuals are, as a rule, in debt. Any change in our monetary policy which brings suffering or ruin upon such a large class is nothing less than a crime. It is just as calamitous to increase the purchasing power of a dollar as it would be to decrease it. The debtor has rights as well as the creditor. The latter may be entitled to his pound of flesh, but he has no right to an additional ounce nor to an unnecessary drop of blood.

Emperor William continues to maintain that he is the Lord's anointed. Evidently William would make a good goldbug democrat. He lacks not the gall, but the oppor-

Senator Mills is now telling the Texani why he became a goldbug. But he doesn't tell the whole story.

Southern men who are now opposing the free coinage of silver should get together and settle on a line of assumptions that won't conflict. If Secretary Smith is right, Senator Mills ought to for free coinage, and if Senator Mills is right Secretary Smith ought to be for free coinage.

Brother Bankhead is having a hard time of it in Alabama, but he will probably get there after awhile.

Democrats who are opposing in Georgia the free coinage of silver are acting as adjutants to the populists.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

Says The New York Tribune: "Work the Panama caral, which was suspended nearly five years ago, will soon be resumed. A new company is now being formed to continue the work. Much of the capital will be furnished by Frenchmen. Xavier Boyard, who represents the old company here, was yesterday quoted as saying: 'It may be a couple of weeks before the new company is incorporated, and I should not know the details until then. But you can depend upon it operations will begin sometime next nth, and enough money has already been raised to do a large amount of work on the project. We expect to prove before we have gone far that the work is in a very good state of preservation, and when the French public see how little of the canal has filled up with silt, or debris, and how soon we can bring it into the same condition that it was when we left it, they will be ready to push the enterprise to comple-tion. And I may say that the French people are going to furnish the funds to do it with. They have not yet lost their pride in it. The scandals have merely served to make them more determined to finish the project and save a large part of the money that has already been expended on it. Of course the bondholders and stockholders will have to be formally consulted as a whole, but the most important ones have joined the en-terprise, and it is with this assurance that the preparations have been report on for the preparations have been going on f several months. It is calculated that large majority of the old stockholders at bondholders will be in rayor of the schen and the new company might be considered as a reorganization of the old concern. The name will probably be very little changed.

"It is astonishing," remarked a New York bookseller recently, "how many men in this city are bitten by the Napoleonic mania. There are New Yorkers whose main object in life seems to be to collect books and curios bearing directly or indirectly on the romantic career of the first Napole By the way, Francis Wilson, the comedian, is one of the most enthusiastic collectors of Napoleana. At his home in New Rochelle he has a fine collection of books, pictures, autographic letters and other relics of the career of the man to whom Wilson bears a very close resemblance in face and figure."

GEORGIA POLITICAL NOTES.

The Cleveland Progress has the follow The Cleveland Progress has the tollowing in regard to the senatorial race:

"In the heat of local political discussions, the claims of the candidates for United States senator must not be forgotten. We need our best and brainlest men to represent us in the upper house of our national congress. We need men who have long made a study of the great political questions that are today agitating the masses. We need men of experience in state affairs, above all things; men who can without delay leap into the arena and do mighty battle for the interests of the people whom they represent. Such a man we find in Hon. A. O. Bacon, who is the acknowledged leader in the senatorial race at present. The people are beginning to show their appreciation of this man, who has lent years of golden crowned effort to the upbuilding of Georgia and secuth. We believe Mr. Bacon will be elected. Expressions from all parts of the state show him to be popular with elected. Expressions from all parts of the state show him to be popular with the people, and, no doubt, if, today, the popular expression of the people could be taken, Bacon would be the name chosen by a grand, overwheiming plurality."

Speaking of the state senatorial race in White county, The Cleveland Progress

"The democrats carried the county before in every election in which party lines were drawn. Does it not stand to reason that we can do so again? It does, and that is just what we will do. Bud Boyd will carry every democrat in the county, and a large contingent of the people's party, who are disgusted with the way the convention at which Höggins was nominated in Dahlonega, was conducted, will give Boyd their heartlest support. We make this broad assertion because we know what we are talking about, and can prove our words. If Hon. M. G. Boyd falls to carry White county we will eat the biggest crow between Tray mountain and the St. Mary's." says:

MORE JUDGES FOR GEORGIA.

Waynesboro Citizen: The fact that there should be an increase of judges of the su-preme court is almost too plain for argument. Take, for instance, the fact that Georgia has more than doubled its population since the law creating the supreme court with three judges went into effect. This, o course, much more than doubled the busi-ness of the court, for litigation, criminal especially, has increased in a greater ratio fifty-eighth Georgia, for example, twenty-two criminal cases, and in the ninety-first Georgia forty-seven cases, which is an in-crease of 114 per cent. In the interim the increase in the single item of railroad cases is 78 per cent. We could show the increase in the whole business at such a ratio as to make it impossible for a court to transact the present business, however honest and faithful the court may be, as the law designs it should be transacted.

Hawkinsville Dispatch: Under existing facts and circumstances it is impossible for the three judges in the time allotted them to carefully investigate the law of each case under the evidence, and the result is they fail to do themselves justice, and what is worse still, the interests of litigants suffer and the law of the land receives contradictory constructions, rendering it difficult, if not impossible, to tell what the law is. Place the blame where it properly belongs— too much work—for when a man is forced to do twice as much work as he can do well, the inevitable result is the work will be only half done. Rome Tribune: It is to be hoped that has been prepared showing the necessity for the increase, and will decide, as has already been decided by all who have studied the question. It is a matter of the greates importance to the people. If our judges are crowded with work it means that they cannot give as much attention to a case as they would were their burdens lightened.

Macon County Citizen: From early morn to late at night the puffing of engines, the whizing of saws, the buzzing of plan-ing machines, the hum of ginning machines, the roar of the forges and the clatter of machinery is heard.

Divorces Obtained in Oklahoma Declared to Be Worthless

WILL IT AFFECT THE HUNTLEY CASE P

News of This Decision Recalls Mrs. Huntley's Suit-She May Have to File Another Ope.

Divorce circles in the various states are all agog over a late decision of the supreme court of Oklahoma, which was handed down Saturday. Considerable interest will be aroused in Atlanta by it.

It is of special interest to those who have secured divorces in Oklahoma since March, 1893, and quite unique is the position of those divorcees who have taken unto themselves a second consort, for they are technically guilty of bigamy.

It is said that one of the most prominent of New York's lesser light politicians and financiers secured a divorce in the territory and married again soon after. He is the happy father of a bright pair of twins, but as the marriage laws of New York state are very general, it is not likely that he will find himself faced with any trouble on account of this decision, especially since his former wife has married again. A divorce suit of interest that this decision recalls to mind is that of Mrs. Huntley against her husband, Dr. Huntley, and that of the doctor against his wife. Mrs. Huntley's divorce suit was filed in Oklanoma and it is a question as to whether or not it will be affected by this decision or not. A number of lawyers have expressed opinions upon it and the general view seems to be that in order for Mrs. Huntley to secure a divorce in legal shape she will have to file another bill. This will make her suit virtually a cross-bill and will place her so that she can answer the allegations in Dr. Huntley's suit by counter-charges without making a bill ancillary to her first suit. It is understood that instead of filing the suit again in Okłahoma, since Dr. Huntley is not making a fight on it to prevent it, Mrs. Huntley will come to Atlanta and take up her residence here and permit the divorce to be acquired by Dr. Huntley and gain her own freedom, a matrimoni vinculo.

In connection with the Huntley divorce case it is said that both Mrs. Marie Robinson Wright and Miss Ida Dent Wright are expected in the city this week. They are in Mexico at present, according to a letter received here, and a late letter from that country intimates that they are on their way to Atlanta. This may bring to light later developments in the divorce suit, in which Mrs. Wright figures as having alienated the affections of Mrs. Huntley from her husband.

That Bombshell from Oklahoma The news from Oklahoma reads as fol-

"Guthrie, Okla., September 8.-A decision of the supreme court of the territory handed down at noon today nullifies all divorces granted by probate judges in Oklahoma since March, 1893. There have been fully 400 divorces so granted, and as a very large percentage of the persons so divorced have been married since, they are guilty bigamy. The people affected are in every state of the union, having come here to take advantage of the liberal divorce laws of the territory, which allow divorces for any of thirteen causes, after a residence of ninety days. The decision will cause a sensation all over the country."

MR. THORN AND MR. THORNTON FIGHT.

Mr. Thorn Resents an Advertisement Which Appeared in Yesterday's Con-

A Sunday morning street fight between prominent principals near the corner of Marietta and Broad streets furnished the sensation of yesterday.

The fight was as warm and exciting as fights get to be, and during the four or five minutes that it lasted collected a large crowd from the throng of churchgoers, who were passing along that prominent thoroughfare.

The difficulty was the outgrowth of a rather sensational advertisement which appeared in The Constitution yesterday, charging Mr. Charles C. Thorn, the wellknown insurance man, with having circulated a lie. It was signed by Thornton & Scott, insurance men, who are competitors of Mr. Thorn.

Mr. Thorn held Mr. John Thornton responsible for the publication, and when the two met in front of Snook's furniture store, on Marietta street, yesterday morning at half-past 9 o'clock, the fight oc-

There had been a good deal of talk of unpleasantness between the gentlemen prior to yesterday's publication, but the advertisement is by long odds the warmest thing that has yet been printed.

Yesterday morning about half-past 9 o'clock Mr. Thornton was walking down Marietta street. Mr. Thorn happened along that way just at the same time. Mr. Thorn called to Mr. Thornton to wait a moment, and Mr. Thornton, stopping, waited until

Mr. Thorn came up.
In an instant Mr. Thorn's heavy right shot out and took Mr. Thornton just above the right eye. Mr. Thorn is a powerful man and his blow sent Mr. Thornton to the sidewalk. Mr. Thornton is even a larger man than Mr. Thorn and he came up in a moment. Again Mr. Thorn's right shot out and once more Mr. Thornton went down under his sledge hammer blows.

The combat was extremely warm and lasted for several minutes, Mr. Thorn getting the better of it. Mr. Thornton did not strike a single blow, he says, and claims hat when he was down Mr. Thorn pounded him over the head.

A large and excited crowd collected around the combatants and as the principals were recognized every one knew the cause. The gentlemen were drawn apart and Patrolman Phillips served each of them with a copy. Mr. Thornton had several dark bruises about his face and on his lips. Over his right eye was a bruise and about his face nist's blows. His right arm was badly sprained, which was caused by his falling heavily upon it. Last night it was badly swollen and was wrapped in a bandage.

What Mr. Thornton Says. Mr. Thornton was seen last night and expressed himself as being extremely re-gretful that such a thing should have occurred on a crowded street and on Sunday

Of course I could not prevent it," said he, "and regret that I have to figure in a street fight. I do not like such things, and for that reason would prefer that nothing be mentioned in the papers about it.
"I was walking along Marietta street out, 'John.' I half turned and at that moment Mr. Thorn struck me over the eye, knocking me down. He knocked me down twice, and after I was down he beat me r the head. I did not strike him at all.

I don't care to talk of it." When asked for his side of the difficulty, Mr. Thorn wrote out this statement, which he said was all he cared to say for pub-

I would like to emphasize the fact that my difficulty with Mr. Thornton was en-tirely the outgrowth of his methods of business competition. I have no personal feeling against him whatever. Some weeks ago he began a series of attacks upon the ompany I represent; and, in my opinion, went far beyond legitimate argument. I warned him and begged him to desist and in my replies to his attacks was careful to refrain. in my replies to his attacks was careful to refrain from any and all personalties. In today's Constitution he published an advertisement over his firm's signature, in which he gave me the lie direct. I thereupon took the only course open to gentlemen and held him personally responsible at our first meeting. at our first meeting. I deplore the affair deeply and have sincerely sought to avoid such a culmination. All I can say is, that it was forced upon me and as far, at least, as I am concerned, it is now ended.

"CHARLES C. THORN." He was questioned concerning the details

I saw Mr. Thornton walking along ahead of me, and called to him, 'John, wait a moment.' He stopped and waited until I walked fully twenty feet to where he stood. Then I struck him. There was nothing left to do but to do it. That card in the paper was just more than I could stand.

could stand.

"It was not the first offense, either. He has published other things and said other things. I was just goaded to do what I did. No one regrets more than I that such a thing was necessary and I especially regret that it happened Sunday morning. Thornton has been doing this for quite a while. So long as he confined himself to legitimate work I did not care, but when he went into personalities I protested. His partner, Mr. Scott, is quite a nice fellow."

The case will be tried in police court this afternoon and will probably bring out some interesting testimony. The controversy between Mr. Thornton and Mr. Thorn has been watched with considerable interest by the public and the sensational culmination of it yesterday was not a great surprise.

Friends out of number flocked in to see him. The richest of delicacies were sent him and everything was done to make him forget as much as possible the disagreeable facts of his situation.

The young man rose early yesterday morning and was in good spirits all day. Early in the morning his friends began to drop in to see him and when moontime arrived he had been visited by thirty-eigh friends. Hooks was seen yesterday afternoon a the jail by a Constitution reporter and was in the best of spirits. He was confident that he would be released on bond before midnight, and looked forward to his release with pleasant anticipations of breathing again the air of freedom.

When asked about his case Hooks said that he was innocent of the charge brough against him, and that he would surely be acquitted at his trial. He said he had no complaint to make of his treatment at the fail, as every one had been very kind to

In speaking of the case Hooks said: "I was never more surprised in my life than when I was arrested at Mr. Winder's office. I have done no wrong and am not responsible for any loss of money that may have occurred in the office. I am sure I shall some out all right in the end.

"I feel deeply grateful," contined Hooks, "to my friends, who have been exceedingly kind to me since I have been in confine ment. A great many have visited me, while others have sent me meals and delicacles. I have had more sent me than I could eat in a month, and I am deeply grateful to my friends."

As the young man talked he was surrounded by other prisoners and several of his friends. His handsome, boyish face contrasted strangely with the faces of the hardened criminals who were in the hall. He is a handsome young fellow, of exceptionally neat appearance. His complexion is fresh and rosy, and he wears a brown mustache.

Hooks's friends who came in a constant stream all day, chatted pleasantly with him and kept him in the most cheerful frame of mind possible. He occupies jointly with William Brown, who is under sentence for gambling, a front room upstairs in the main part of the jail. The walls are adorned with pictures and the room presents rather an inviting appearance. Since he has been in jail, Hooks has not mixed much with the other prisoners, but has kept as much as possible away from them. The young man's popularity was amply shown yesterday by his many callers. among whom were several of his former associates in the employ of the railroad.

INDIVIDUAL INSTRUCTION.

A Source of Valuable Information and an Invaluable Self-Instructor. Instructions given individually are recognized to be of much more value and to be productive of vastly more good than class or collective instruction. No two persons' minds are of the same composition, and in class instruction the mind of quick perception is retarded by the less perceptive ones in the class, and similarly the quicker minds hurry the slower ones to the detriment of the latter. By the system of individual instruction all this is obviated and done away with, and each different person progresses in gaining of knowledge just in proportion to his abilities to grasp the prin-iples involved. The cost of individual instruction has thus far been too great, and many a person has been deprived of its benefits because of this fact, and has been compelled to take onehalf a loaf by class instruction. All this is now changed, and no person is so poor he cannot obtain the very best and most excellent individual instruction in existence by purchasing the new edition of the Encyclo-paedia Britannica, which is now offered in paeda Britannica, which is now offered in twenty-eight large quarto volumes at the exceedingly favorable terms of only 10 cents per day! Norma Wills and Inez Mackey.

"With such names," writes the advance agent, "the play is an assured success, and its presentation tonight will be one of the musical and comedy treats of the season. During the action of the farce, a laughable buriesque will be introduced by Miss Norma Wills and Monte Collins, as the opera queen and the tramp. Miss Wills has a volce that would be a valuable acquisition to grand opera. She has a pleasing stage presence and aids greatly to the success of '4-11-41."

The costumes are said to be elegant. Monte Collins has many friends in Atlanta, who will welcome hifn tonight. "4-11-41" will be repeated at the matinee tomorrow and tomorrow night.

IT IS COLORED AND VERY TONY.

The Manager and About Twenty-Pive Members Arrested and Locked Up at Police Headquarters.

The detective department has started in to break up the gambling and blind tiger dens in the city, if such a thing be possible. Four or five tigers were bagged yesterday and among the number was the chartered social organization known as "Our City Club," at 941/2 Decatur street.

This is a social colored institution presided ver by Bob Stephenson. The raid on the clubrooms was made by the detective force at about 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon and Bob Stephenson, the manager, and about twenty-five negroes, who were in the rooms at the time, were arrested and carried to police headquarters.

When the officers arrived an interesting pectagle confronted them. The detectives say that a well-equipped buffet was being liberally drawn upon for liquid refreshments and a number of bullard and card tables were surrounded by numerous players. In fact, the scene was one resembling a full-fledged beer garden, and riotous hilar ity reigned supreme.

The click of the money drawer could be heard in unison with the popping of corks, and everything seemed to indicate that s rousing business was being done.

The arrival of the detectives caused no little consternation among the revelers, and a wild rush was at once made for the door. Every means of egress, however, was well guarded and nearly all of the gang was bagged. The officers did not disturb the barroom attachments, but the extensive gambling paraphernalia, consisting of several packs of cards, was confiscated. All of the negroes were locked up on the charge of disorderly conduct except the manager, who will have to answer to the charge of retailing whisky without license. Stephenson and a few of his associates were released on bonds last night. The officers will make an effort to establish the fact that gambling has been permitted in the clubrooms, and state cases will be made after the charges before the recorder's court are disposed of. This will be the policy of the detective department hereafter in all similar cases. The detectives think this is the only way to break such infractions of the law. Bob Stephenson feels that he and his club associates are the victims of a great outrage at the hands of the detectives. "Our City Club," said he, "Is legally charfered and its members are the very best colored people in the city. Our rooms are nicely arranged and we have refreshments. but the institution is conducted on the assessment plan, just like the white folks' clubs, and we have violated no law. Gambling has never been permitted in the rooms. and I challenge anybody to find a more orderly set of colored folks than our members. It looks pretty hard to be continually raided in this way when the white clubouses are wide open all the time."

Blind tigers of lesser magnitude, operated by Fortune Nunn, Jeff Ham, Quigg Mitchell and Dock Wynn, were also bagged yesterday. The detectives claim to have conclusive evidence in each case.

YESTERDAY MORNING'S FIRE. The Damage Was Lighter Than Was at First Supposed. It was found, upon investigation, Yesterday morning that the fire which had occurred at the store of the Memphi Stove Company on Whitehall street early in the morning, e nearly as much damage as was at first supposed. This was due solely to the splendid work of Chief Joyner and his brave laddles. When the department arrived at the scene of the fire there was a very dangerous blaze directly in the rear of the store occupled by the Memphi Stove Company, while immense volumes of smoke were issuing from that store, and from the one occu-pled by the Glover Book Company. The the store, but the smoke in the front of the building had become much more dense

The firemen then turned their attention to the fire in the interior of the building. The fire was located after considerable difficulty in the basenum of the Memphi Stove Company's store, and the firemen soon had several streams of water playing

The fire was completely extinguished in the course of half an hour. It was found yesterday that the stock of the Glover Book Company had not been injured at all ex-cept by smoke. The basement of the stove cept by smoke. The basement of the stove company was flooded with wall», but the stock on the ground floor was not injured at all. The fire started among some straw packing for glass jars, which was located in the basement. The origin of the fire is unknown. If it had not been for the prompt and very efficient work of the department the fire would very likely have burned down a block or more of buildings. A reckless use of water would have resulted in great damage, but no more water was used than was absolutely necessary for the putting out of the fire. The work for the putting out of the fire. The work reflected much credit on the fire depart-

DR. CLOUD'S FUNERAL.

He Was Buried Yesterday on the Soldier's Plot at Westview. The funeral services of the late Dr. W.

B. Cloud were held yesterday morning at 10 o'clock at his residence, 166 Ivy street. General Clement A. Evans, president of the Confederate Veterans' Association, offithe Confederate Veterans' Association, om-ciated at the services. The general made a most impressive talk over the remains of his old comrade-in-arms. Quite a number of confederate veterans were present and the occasion was a most solemn one. Dr. Cloud's remains were laid to rest in the besuitful plot of ground at Westview the beautiful plot of ground at Westview cemetery which has been dedicated to the confederate soldiers. The pallbearers were: R. H. Milledge, Captain W. R. Burke, Dr. Charles D'Alvigny, Mr. W. E. Hoyle, Judge A. A. Manning and Dr. Kendall.

Scott Marble's new play, "Down in Dixle," will be produced Wednesday night at the Grand. It is under the management of Davis & Keogh.

"Down in Dixle" is essentially a southern play that is put on with all the accessories of beautiful scenery, representing the picturesque cotton fields and homesteads of Georgia and Carolina.

Everything has been done to faithfully rortray life in the sunny south. A plekaninny band, composed entirely of small darkies, is one of its many novel features. A beautiful story of romance and heroism is interwoven into the plot of this ideal southern play.

There is more life in one grain of wheat than there is in a bushel of chaff. The same axiom is equally true regarding Hood's Sarsaparilla as compared to many other medicines.

SHE IS MRS. HICKEN.

See the Couple.

HICKEN IS QUITE SICK.

Mrs. Hicken Has a Word to Say About Her Indentity and Says She Is Nobody but Mrs. Hicken.

Mr. George Hicken, the husband of Mrs. Hicken who is now confined in Fulton county iail on a charge of cheating and swindling, is a very sick man, or at least he says he is, and his appearance bears out his statement.

Mr. Hicken, who is charged with being hi wife's accomplice in the case of cheating and swindling, is also confined in the jail, and he and his wife occupy the left hand front room on the lower floor of the jail. The room is a very pleasantly situated one and the pair seem to be very comfortably fixed.

Dr. Graham, of Titusville, Fla., called to see Mr. Hicken yesterday afternoon and was closeted with him for about a half hour. Jailer Mardis was in the room at the time of the conference but refused to divulge what had taken place. Dr. Graham himself was seen by the reporter but he refused to talk of the object of his visit to the jail. He also refused to give his name, which was afterward learned from Mr. Hicken. The doctor said that his visit was merely out of curiosity, as he had thought that probably he might have known the prisoner before, but that he found that he was mistaken in his sunposition.

After the doctor had taken his departure, Mr. Hicken stated that his visitor had been sent by Dr. Amos Fox to examine him in the rites of Masonry. Hicken wears a Masonic pin and it is said that the Masons of the city are going to help him out of his trouble. He says that Dr. Fox has interested himself in the case and that the doctor has been trying for some time to get over and see him, but has been too usy to do so, and, therefore, he had sent Dr. Graham in his stead. Hicken claims to be suffering from internal injuries received some years ago by falling from the rigging of a ship on which he was working. He says that he is in need of treatment from a specialist and that he has no money with which to pay one. His kidneys are injured but he is not suffering, he says, from Bright's disease, as has been stated.

Mrs. Hicken was in good health and spirits 'yesterday afternoon. She talked freely, saying that she is innocent of the charges against her. She said that she had only one request to make of The Con-stitution, and that was to call her by her right name, Mrs. Hicken.

In speaking of this matter, she said: "Since I was arrested in Marietta, it has been proven conclusively to the minds of my accusers that I was Mrs. White, Mrs. Thompson, Mrs. Bradford, and now they are sure I am Mrs. McFadden. According to the stories which have been told about me, I have been born in Madison, Ga., in Tampa, Fla., and in various and divers other places. In fact, I begin to doubt my other places. In fact, I begin to doubt my own identity. I would like to say through your paper that Kate Racker, who is com-monly known as the "Daughter of the Regiment," was, during the time she was at this prison, exceedingly kind to me. Whatever the public may think of Kate, I am satisfied in my mind that she is a truehearted woman.'

Mrs. Hicken expresses herself as more than pleased at the new Jailer who has succeeded Mr. McCollough. She says that the men now in charge of the jail are well fitted for the positions, and that they have all been very kind to her; that the meals furnished her are comparatively good ones, and that she is very well satisfied with them. Mrs. Hicken does not think that the newspapers of the city have treated her at all fairly and says that it will be a matter of impossibility for her to be tried by an impartial jury as the newspaper stories will have prejudiced every

CHATTANOOGA AWAKE.

Her Merchants and Manufacturers Will Exhibit at the Exposition. The people of the thriving city of Chatta-nooga are thoroughly alive to the fact that the coming exposition is to be one of the greatest importance to the whole south.

The merchants and manufacturers of Chattanooga are preparing to make a great show at the exposition. This matter will come up for discussion at the next regular meeting of the chamber of commerce in that city, which will be held on Thursday In talking of the proposed exhibit Saturday Secretary Goulding of the chamber of commerce, said:

"No, we have decided that the best thing to do with regard to the joint exhibition at Atlanta would be to wait and put the matter before the chamber of commerce in a business-like manner. The matter is one of great importance and should be well discussed and the ground looked over in a practical way. Some action should be taken at once looking to the securing of the section for the exhibit.
"I want you newspaper men to assist me in drawing out every business man in Chattanooga, and especially the manu-facturers, no matter how small their business, to this meeting."

He then said that he had talked with a number of the prominent business men and they all seemed to be very favorable to the joint exhibit, and that he thought if handled properly it would be a grand thing.

The Manchester Market. Manchester, September 9.—A fair business was done during the week and prices advanced with those of cotton. India was the principal buyer, taking chiefly mulls and jaconets. China took large lines of low shirtings. The better qualities were neglected and stocks are accumulating. The South American demand is reviving. The South American demand is reviving. Sales to the levant, Egypt, and the minor European markets were fair. In yarns, business was moderately satisfactory, both for the home and export trade. It is claimed that Lancashire business is generally on a sounder basis. Spinners hold little cotton and refuse forward contracts. Manufacturers hold no yarn, and insist on full prices, heavy stocks waiting for clearances now being scarce. There is some inquiry for velvets for the United States.

YOUNG DEMOCRATS.

They Will Meet in Great Numbers at the Courthouse Tonight.

THE LEAGUE WILL ELECT OFFICERS.

Mr. Diehl Will Call the Meeting to Order and a Democratic Jellification Will

The Young Men's Democratic League of Atlanta will get in the campaign tonight. A rousing rally will be held at the courthouse at 8 o'clock tonight, and besides electing a new set of officers for the coming year, the members of the league will listen to some good democratic speeches from their ranks. The league is determined to do active work for democracy and it will get into good working trim at the meeting tonight.

The meeting will be called to order by Vice President George A. Diehl. Mr. Thomas R. R. Cobb, who first called the meeting, as his resignation had not been accepted, will be present and will join heartily with Mr. Diehl in making the meeting one of the rousing democratic kind.

The only announced candidate for president of the league mentioned so far is Mr. W. H. Black. It is not known whether or not he will have opposition. There are a number of aspiring and ambitious young democrats in the league who would doubtless be proud of the honor.

The meeting will be one of the largest and most enthusiastic that the league has ever held. The young democracy of Fulton county is stirred up, and the young men want to aid in stamping out populism. They will, therefore, rally at the meeting tonight in great numbers to add their voices to the rallying cry. The league has been a strong factor in local politics until quite recently it has been allowed to lag superfluous. The memthe front and make it the instrument of much good work in the cause of the great party. Nearly every young democrat in the city s a member of the league, and the object of the president and secretary is to have

Pandora's Box

The beautiful story of Mythology Finds a counterpart In the real Life of today.

THE realms of mythological legend Pandora holds the place of honor. She it was who held in her possession the gifts vouchsafed to the inhabitants of the earth. The gods all sought her favor, but Prometheus alone—he who plucked from heaven the fire to illumine the earthwas able to procure for himself the invaluable boon of her good graces.

Who would not be a Prometheus?

Pandora had in her time "a corner" on knowledge. She still holds that corner, and it is called, in the practical language of today, the Encyclopædia Britannica.

There is nothing mean about Pandora. When she has "a corner" she does not put up the price and say, "Those who want must pay." On the contrary, through her agent, The Constitution, she now offers all her gifts of knowledge to any who will but strive for them. Within the Encyclopædia Britannica, the Pandora's Box of the nineteenth century, is all the knowledge of the world, condensed and classified so that he who runs may read, and he who reads may know.

Who would not be a Prometheus of the present? It will cost you but 10 cents a day to gain that distinction, for that will buy the new Edition Encyclopædia Britannica, in any style of binding you may select. But do not forget that this is an introductory offer, and is simply for the purpose of getting this new edition before the people. Some Strong Sermons Delivered by the Local Ministers Yesterday.

SERMON AT TRINITY,

Yesterday Was a Perfect Day and Good Crowds Attended All of Yesterday was a favorable day for The inducements to go to church were unusually alluring. Outside the day was Bright sunshine and delicious breezes invited every one to worship and added to these were the prospects of good

Nearly all of the pastors have returned to their charges, and, much improved after their vacations, preach with new life and vigor. Many splendid things were said from Atlanta's pulpits yesterday.

At Trinity. Dr. Lewis preached a fine sermon and one much enjoyed by a large audience yes-terday at 11 o'clock at Trinity church. Dr. Lewis's subject was "Christ—Hidden or Revealed," and for forty minutes his originality and fine conception of new ideas on this line fully convinced the large audience of the doctor's power and fitness in deep and broad sermonizing. The text was "Judas, not Iscariot, saith unto Him, Lord, how is it thou will manifest thyself unto us and not unto the world?" John Lord, how is it thou will manifest thyself unto us and not unto the world?" John xiv: 22.

Judas was both surprised and perplexed at hearing the world ruled out of seeing Christ. Didn't He come to be seen of all, and wasn't His hiding of Himself from any in conflict with the end of His coming? What change of purpose had come over him in this matter?

-First consider the fact. It is a fact that Jesus Christ was seen by very few. True, multitudes at His baptism, or when he fed the hungry, or healed the sick, or raised the dead, or died Himself, saw the man; but they stopped at the surface of His being, seeing not his nature as the Christ, the Son of God. And this difference of manifestation to the church and to the world, before His crucifixion, was more marked after it. It was indeed infinitely widened. Not even the Jesus, not to speak of the Christ, appeared after that event to anybody but friends; to Mary, but not to the guard; to the congregation of followers, but to none other; to 500 believers, but to none of the 5,000,000 unbelievers in Judea. After death He was, in even His risen humanity, not only a sealed book to His enemies, but a lost one; and He had faded out of their view as a world fact fades when one falls asleep or goes blind.

This is the history of all following Christ, to-wit: He is not seen by the world—not for lack of love in Him, but loss of power in them to see him. The confession of agnostic unbelief in Christ, oftener defant than apologetic, is merely admitting the result of a blindness caused by non-use of the faith sense, or its willful disabling. blooms. The deaf cannot hear the sweetest song, but song is on the wing, like angels, to serenade the dwellers of the night. The song of the Christ makes even cemeteries the operas of joy, even though deaf souls may not hear them, and the Hiy of the valley delights the sight of many, as the fairest of ten thousand flowers, though many others see it not.

We do see Christ! "He hath His way in the whiriwind and the storm and the clouds are the

He is seen in the regions of service. When Moses fed the flocks—a lowly service, but a rightly rendered one—Christ came into the bush to be seen; and if He came in glorious vision upon the prayerful hermit, He remained to shed a richer luster on the servant of the hungry poor. It was to Saul as he thought to do him service, while he persecuted the saints through ignorance, that His face shone out above the brightness of the sun, and His words, to some but meaningless thunder, were articulate divine command. He that wills to do His will shall know Him. Whose eye is single, his whole body is full of light. If He cannot be seen by the disobedient, the obedient cannot fail to find Him. They don't fail. They find Him. He is seen in the time of trouble. His face shone in the furnace where were cast young men preferring death to sin; and as John, the exile, for his testimony of the gospel. He beamed in all the unutterable splendors of the beauty of the Lord. Above the majesty of Stephen, dying true under a shower of stones and hate, the open heaven let down the splendid vision of the living Christ. All that walk the stern heights of suffering catch some glimpses of His face; and he does not vanish away as He breaks for them the blessed bread of His grace, but wines with them. At the end—on the banks of lovely Jordan—we are certain to meet him, and like the seamen in the storm, to be immediately on the further side—at home with Him for all ages.

At St. Luke's M. E. Church.

At St. Luke's M. E. Church. From the Third Ephesians, seventh chap-ter and eighth verse, Rev. Dr. Heidt preach-ed a powerful sermon last night to an immense audience in the gospel tent, be-longing to St. Luke's Methodist church, and situated in the rear of the church building on Santa and the church building, on Savannah street.

and situated in the rear of the church building, on Savannah street.

"Wherefore, the holy ghost sayeth today, if ye will hear His voice, harden not your hearts." The doctor said this message came as one of extraordinary force and importance, inasmuch as it was the voice of the holy ghost, the most important and essential of the three heads, to an everlasting salvation, and which wrestled with the conscience or man in every walk of life. God is the almighty, the son is the mediator and the holy ghost our means of salvation, by making us conscious of our spiritual relation to God, and being our means of obtaining everlasting life through Christ Jesus, the mediator, while God kept us forever safe.

The voice is not essentially an audiblevoice. It is that small, still voice unnecessary that we should hear, as it speaks inaudibly through our hearts, minds, soul and conscience, and enables us to realizatour position. We may be forgiven for sins committed against God and the son, but not of sins committed against the holy ghost-showing the latter to be the essential of the three. Moreover, if in audible tones, this voice would be misunderstood, or, as the compounding of the gospel daily by the preacher, it would be capable of misconstruction and consequent confusion.

The Central Congregations.

"Love and Forgiveness" was the theme of the Rev. R. V, Atkisson, of the Central misconstruction and consequent confusion.

The Central Congregational.

"Love and Forgiveness" was the theme of the Rev. R. V. Atkisson, of the Central Congregational church, yesterday. It was communion Sunday and ten new members were received and added to the roll. The text used was exceedingly appropriate to the occasion: "Her sins, which are many, are forgiven; for she loved much." The minister, after describing the occasion which gave rise to our Lord's use of the words of the text, said:

"The scene presents three persons and these three represent divine love, its effect and powerful influence, and the consequences. The proud, haughty, self-righteous Pharisee, the ecclesiastical, conceited bigot was unforgiving and unloving. The woman, who was the penitent sinner, having felt the force of the divine law, is now overflowing with gratitude and burning love towards her benefactor and Christ, the royal guest, the manifestation of heaven's love and good will to man.

"These are the three types. Superior to all is the divine Lord of glory. Here we have God loving, and this is the basis of salvation. The spring motive of man's salvation had its origin in the divine heart. For God so loved the world, is the reason given. The Lamb was slain from the foundation of the world. The divine godhead evolved from Himself all motives, purposes and all ends in regard to man's salvation. We must go up into the sublime heights, the infinite, majestic mountains of heavenly love would we find the cause of redemption. It is absolute, independent and cannot suitably be illustrated. Standing in the person of Jesus Christ in the presence of sin and sympathizing with the sinner, being divine in its nature, it was not turned aside by our sinful condition. This is true of divine love. Christ still forgives today where all will and envy. Much praying, forgive us our debts as we forgive our debts as we forgive our debtors" Is suppeme mockery. The love of God

But where true penitence has taken place and the warm love of God is truly felt in the heart, there cannot exist hate, envy, strife and unforgiveness. Here is the strong element in Christ—His non-resistance of evil. The effect of this love of God in our hearts should be to cleanse us and purify our lives, and fill us with new impulses and new affections. This love calls for love in return. The cause of this woman's pailence was her vision of divine love. She touched the Bavior and was healed. She recognized his worthiness of trust and love and gave both. Her love was not the cause of her forgiveness no more than tears are the cause of sorrow. Being wounded we weep, being forgiven she loved. Forgiveness went before, love is an evidence. Service should follow such pardon and such love. How is it with you's but we must not pass by the Pharisee class. There are many still in the church and out of it. They are 'good enough' characters and even better than others' in many instances. They measure all by their own standards. This class has nothing in common with Christ. In our Lord's day the Pharisee considered himself the standard of orthodoxy and finally brought Christ to a church trial and condemned Him to death on the cross. There was no room for Christ's spirit in the man. Right here is where the devil wants a man, and then he is sure that he will work out his own damnation. Supreme egotism, ecclesiastically and morally, leads to such a state of soul that God can't help the man. Dependence is the first sense one must have who would meet God and get His spirit of love. Emmity and Christ's spirit can't live together in the same chamber. Virtue without religion won't do. May such a spirit grow in you day by day."

First Presbyterian Church.

First Presbyterian Church. The sermon of Rev. E. H. Barnett on yesterday morning was eloquent and convincing. The pastor selected as his text, Hebrews v, 9: "And being made perfect, he became the author of eternal salvation unto all them that obey Him." In connection were read a part of the second chapter of Hebrews, and one verse in the third chapter.

unto all them that obey Him." In connection were read a part of the second chapter of Hebrews, and one verse in the third chapter.

The apostle was speaking of Christ as a priest and contrasting Him with the other Jewish priests, showing the excellence of Christ's methods and teaching. His comparison is to be extended throughout the entire workings of Christ. Jesus Christ is a perfect savior in all respects—the author of eternal salvation to all those who obey Him. Christ was perfect. Perfection is here employed as a relative term. It means adapted to the end for which it was made and must have reference to all His work. His relations to God and man are twofold—the presenting of man to God, and the presenting of God to man. He is accessible to the chamber of Deity and yet assumes the troubles and cares of earth. Moreover perfection applies not to the person of Christ. There was never failure in Him or change in his inherent, holy character, The same today, yesterday and forever. The combination of divine and human nature makes him the perfect man. The mediatorial person of Christ was by the providential dealings of God.

Jesus grew in stature and in favor with God and man. There was a body development—a ripening into strong, stalwart manhood. He grew in wisdom. His intellectual power developed until He could grasp and solve the most sublime problems and present them in a pungent, lucid way. We pay not enough attention to the consummate wisdom of Christ—the human increase and development. We must admire intellectual power when presented by a process which appeals to our understandings. Christ's philosophy is equaled in depth and extent by no philosophy of the schools. He grew in favor with God and man—with God as spiritual favor, with man a moral development. The child of Nazareth and the strong man on the banks of the Jordan became perfect in every attribute.

Jesus is a pattern and example to us—the perfect savior to man. We must become perfect, more and more like Christ. Man is not to be a puglilist and asser usiness?" Christ's life was devoted also to uplifting

Christ's life was devoted also to uplifting the fallen, relieving the oppressed and helping the poor. Until we do these our religious lives will not culminate. As a reply to a question concerning his belief the Christian said: "Mine is an out and out Christianity." Everything that interferes with this great striving and the progress of divine life should be torn aside and lestroyed. Christ-possessed profound knowledge of the word and will of God. He acknered always in the words of God, and in quoting the phraseology of the scripture He magnified God and His word. He brought the word of God to bear as the alone rule and practice for man and placed the crown of glory upon the head of His Heavenly Father.

Man felt that this was true, because He made the word of God and its precepts His own. Character is formed by the individual man. We may inherit different thaits from

man. We may inherit different traits from our parents, but God Himself cannot transfer characters. Into the current we must throw our own individuality. SOCIAL NOTES, Miss Maymie Lovinggood a charming and accomplished young lady of this city, has been spending a few weeks at Elberton and Franklin Springs, visiting friends and relatives. Her many Atlanta friends will be delighted to know that she is expected to return about the 12th instant.

Madison, Ga., September 9.—(Special.)—
The members of the Tuesday Afternoon
Club were charmingly entertained by Miss Katle Porter Barnett on last Tuesday. The menu was delightful and the mode of entertainment unique. The guests were given photographs of noted men with the request that each relate some fact concerning them.
Prizes were given for the most interesting narrative. The first prize was awarded to the brilliant Mrs. T. B. West, of Macon.
The second was a tie between Misses Agnes Godfrey and Bessie Butler.

The Queen of the Elowers

The flowers were all in council met To chose for them a queen. They were a merry, happy lot, The prettiest ever seen.

The poppy first her claims did flaunt, She wished to wear the crown; Of all the flowers she was most bold, And brilliant was her gown.

The rose blushed red her charms to tell. She was so sweet and fair; Her perfume floated on the breeze, None could with her compare.

The stately lily, clad in white, Was sure she'd won the day; She was so pure and spotless

None could her rights gainsay. The sweet blue violet hung her head, By modesty mate mute; She did not even speak a word-

None could her claim dispute, And so each flower in her turn Spoke boldly for herself. Honor 'twas for which they sought,

They did not think of wealth. And so at length the vote was cast, The council lasted an hour,

When, lo! each one had cast her vote For Hoyt's Aegal Patent Flour. And thus you see that honest worth Is bound to be rewarded: This vote, all unsolicited. By each had been accorded.

New Coal Company Come to the City.

The Jullico and Alabama Coal Company has located in Atlanta at No. 12 Auburn avenue, near corner Peachtree street, opposite Y. M. C. A., at the old stand of Harrison & Bro. They have made a wise choice in selecting their resident manager, Mr. W. E. Hoyle. Mr. Hoyle has been in the retail coal business for the past fifteen years and thoroughly understands the wants of the retail coal trade and is well acquainted with the people. They also have selected Mr. F. M. Chase as secretary, who has been identified with the retail coal trade for many years and is a live, energetic young man, thoroughly competent to fill the place. They will handle the genuine Jullico—all grades—Cahaba, Redash and Peerless Alabama coals and the best dry stove wood. Mr. Hoyle and Mr. Chase respectfully ask all their friends to remember where to find them when they want coal and wood, 12 Auburn avenue. 'Phone 1062.

Boys' School Suits

If any one needs Clothes that will stand grief-strong, easy, shapely Suits-it's a full-blooded school boy. The fondest parent hasn't a suit dream for her school boy, but its realization-or better, is here

Plaids, plain colors, and pretty mixtures by the score. But the most astonishing part is to see what high-grade goods can be bought for such a little money.

It takes as much pains and care to get up a neat, easy-fitting, stylishly-shaped Suit for the school lad as to make one for a man. Little enough worry if the makers know how. We see to it that he does. The department is now gracefully enriched, regularly gemmed with hundreds of sparkling spick-and-span sorts.

Manufacturers and Dealers in Pure Oak Tanned Leather Belting, Rubber Belting, Hose, Lace-Leather Packof ings, etc. largest manufacturers Without fear of contradiction we can state that we carry the largest ᄪ and best assortment of these goods of any house in the South. Our reputation for high grade goods and reasonable prices is un-
